Our distribution partners help ensure that a broad mix of building products are readily accessible to our members. Many carry deep inventories across categories, such as doors, trim, siding, decking, windows, and hardware, supporting full-load or mixed-load delivery models. They offer value-added services, such as prefinishing, custom machining, and logistics support. We can connect members with distributors that specialize in single-family, multifamily, or commercial supply.

DOORS & FRAMES

Doors & Frames include a broad mix of interior and exterior doors, along with wood and metal frames. Vendor offerings range from a variety of styles and materials, with some offering additional services like prehanging, machining, and finishing services. Select vendors also help dealers service commercial customers, and can be found in that section as well. Our team can guide you towards the vendors that best fit your project type and budget.

Moulding vendors offer members a wide variety of profiles and materials in varying quantities. Products range from commodity trim to high-end architectural details, with many suppliers offering custom capabilities. Some vendors also offer prefinished mouldings or value-added services, such as kitting or bundling. Moulding can be sourced in smaller quantities through distribution, by the container through specific vendors, or in quantities in between. Our team can work to help identify partners who match members' volume, style, and service their area.

Flooring vendors offer dealers options such as hardwood, engineered wood, luxury vinyl plank (LVP), laminate, porcelain & ceramic tile, and carpet. Many vendors stay on top of design trends and provide matching trim or stair components. Moisture protection, warranty support, and sustainability certifications are also common differentiators. Some of these products are also found through our distribution center program. For many drop ship vendors, displays must be purchased to showcase their products in order to participate in their program. Our team can connect members with the best-fit vendors for any application.

Garage door vendors offer dealers a range of residential and commercial solutions, including steel, wood, aluminum, and composite door systems. Available styles span from traditional panel doors to contemporary glass and carriage house designs. Many options typically include various insulation levels, color choices, and hardware packages. Some vendors also offer openers, smart controls, and commercial roll-up solutions.

HARDWARE & DOOR COMPONENTS

Hardware & Door Components include hinges, locksets, closers, thresholds, weatherstripping, and other essential door components. The majority of these vendors cover a wide range of residential applications, but some also service commercial and specialty applications, including fire-rated and ADA-compliant solutions. Finish options, security ratings, and performance features vary by brand, and our team can connect members with vendors that meet their project needs. There are several hardware vendors who are stocked in our distribution centers, but our teams can connect dealers with a wide array of additional vendors, depending on volume, style, and budget requirements.

Our commercial vendor network supports a wide range of non-residential construction needs, from structural products to interior finishes. Many of these vendors can also support members in non-commercial projects, which may be featured in other sections of this book. Their offerings typically serve multifamily, hospitality, healthcare, and institutional sectors, with an emphasis on code compliance and durability. Products span from commercial doors and hardware to specialty panels, partitions, bulk cabinets, and more. Our team can connect members with the right partners based on your project scope, location, and timeline.

Our team works with a select group of strategic vendor partners that offer products across multiple categories under a single brand or corporate umbrella. These partners provide comprehensive solutions that span a variety of millwork products, often with product lines that are designed to complement one another. Their broad offerings can simplify sourcing, streamline communication, and ensure product compatibility across categories. By working with these umbrella partners, members can often benefit from consistent service and greater operational efficiency.
